NATURE IS THE HEART OF OUR PHILOSOPHY

2024

We are a family-owned company with roots in the small coastal town of Båstad, Sweden. The surrounding landscape is rich in deep valleys, dramatic cliffs, enchanting forests and a breathtaking coastline.

With inspiration from daily life and the natural world, we want to create objects whose emphasis lies on beauty and natural shapes, where functionality is unequivocal.

We make our products out of durable materials that echo the Scandinavian design language, sleek and playful.

Nature is close to our hearts, and we put a lot of effort into developing products with care for humans and nature. We let creation take time, never compromise on durability and take pride in using materials that age with character and beauty.

Join us on our journey of creation, where we combine art, design, sustainability and functionality with a deep knowledge of crafts and the natural world.

Kind regards,
Helena Nobel
CEO

MEMORIES AND FAITHFUL FRIENDS

Introducing our brand-new product range for this year: wooden boxes that are perfect for storing small treasures, memories, jewellery, keychains, and mobile chargers. We have created four boxes inspired by an old craft method that doesn't require nails or screws. On the lid of each box rests a hand-carved animal that serves as a knob. The boxes come in four different sizes, each with a different colour and animal: frog, snail, squirrel, and mallard.

Humans' best friend – the dog – is also our oldest companion. Exactly when and how wolves, dogs' ancestors, were domesticated is still debated among scientists. As early as the Neolithic period, humans began to engage in selective breeding, thus creating different breeds. Inspired by popular dog breeds, we have created a new collection of hand-carved hooks featuring eleven iconic breeds: Labrador Retriever, Alsatian, French Bulldog, Chihuahua, Australian Shepherd, Golden Retriever, Jack Russell Terrier, Springer Spaniel, Dachshund, Husky, and Poodle.

New birds fly into our DecoBird family: a lifelike puffin and an Australian magpie. The magpie also features as a new addition to our hook series.

HOME ACCESSORIES

Add a personal touch to the home with functional homeware inspired by the natural world. This collection contains iconic favourites, timeless pieces, and harmonious shapes. Each item, regardless of series, shares the typical Scandinavian design language, despite differences in production methods.

Here, handmade birds, cast iron sculptures, and practical everyday items made of wood and metal come together to spread joy in the everyday.

DOORSTOPS

These handcrafted doorstops draw inspiration from the animal kingdom. Each has a wood-carved forest animal motif, hand-painted in environmentally friendly paints. The artisans carve the doorstops out of a single piece of wood, and the underside has an anti-slip silicone coating.

DIFFUSER

An eagle-owl, hand-carved out of red cedar wood, guards the clothes in your wardrobe. Inside the owl is a diffuser filled with cedar oil that spreads a refreshing scent. Hang the owl from a clothes hanger using the leather string at the top of the owl's head. When the cedar oil runs out, refill it with the 10 ml cedar oil refill bottle.

SHOEHORNS

Let these decorative nature-inspired shoehorns adorn the hallway. The hand-carved woodpecker, merlin, and northern cardinal have elongated tailfeathers that form a practical shoehorn. If you prefer a longer shoehorn, there is also a stylish owl made of lacquered steel. Use the leather strip to hang the shoehorns.

Material: Cast iron | Other: N.B. cast iron is a natural material that rusts when exposed to moisture.

Woodcarving is perhaps the world's oldest craft. In China, the tradition goes back at least 7,000 years. The same tools are still in use; carving knife, strait and scoop gouge, coping saw, chisel, straight handles, and curved handles—the blades always sharp. Unlike traditional Manchurian wood carving, where the wood's structure is polished away, we always leave a small memory of the forest behind.

WHY IT TAKES SEVERAL HUNDRED YEARS TO CARVE A WREN

In no other cultural tradition has nature played a more vital role in the arts than in China. Yet, the artisans, along with the merchants, were at the bottom of the social pyramid.

On May 16, 1645, everything changed when the Manchurian emperor Kangxi dissolved the Chinese caste system. Overnight, woodcarvers transformed into respected citizens, and, thanks to the support of the imperial court, woodcarving was elevated to a “Heavenly craft.”

This may sound like just a story, but it is much more important than that because it is in a village in Manchuria that our ideas take shape. From trees that the villagers themselves have cut down in the forest. In the winters, they gather at each other’s homes around red-hot wood stoves, gossiping and woodcarving. Outside it is 30 degrees below zero, and the fields’ soil has frozen to stone. For generations, the rough fists of the farmers have shaped the most exquisite objects. In many aspects, a tradition reminiscent of how Swedish farmers would gather around the warming fire in huts and carve ‘Dala’ horses.

At first, figurines were carved for their house altars to honour gods, ancestors, and the holy hermit Han-Shan. Thus, to scamp with the craft was not even conceivable. The same philosophy applies today; what does not pass the carver’s scrutiny becomes heat in the house’s wood stove.

The philosopher Confucius, who, not unexpectedly, also came from Manchuria, said that “Lucky is he who has friends in distant lands.” We can testify that this hospitality has survived to this day, over 2,500 years later. They invite us to share their food. What begins as a business relationship quickly develops into friendship.

We want to believe that this attention to people, objects and centuries of craft tradition and professional pride is present in our products. The moral of this little story is that we have a lot to thank Emperor Kangxi and Confucius for and that if you want to carve a wren that looks like a wren, you better not be in a hurry.

DecoBird—WOOD-CARVED BIRDS

DecoBird is an iconic ever-growing family of authentic wood-carved birds. They are popular as collector's items, design gifts, and nature-inspired homeware details. Today, even schools use them to adorn classrooms and as teaching aids. Each hand-carved bird has an informative booklet about the specific bird and its geographical range.

DecoBirds are a craft product developed in collaboration with ornithologists, product designers and artisans. The result is an extensive bird family where each object is unique. The products are painted with environmentally friendly colours and made for indoor use.

Depending on the size of the bird, Wildlife Gardens' DecoBirds come packaged in two different types of boxes. Large birds come in a standard box, while medium and small birds come in windowed display boxes.

Circles next to each bird illustrate their geographic range. Use the map legend to find out on which continents the bird presides.

NESTS & FEEDERS

Our collections of architectural nests and feeders attract wildlife to the garden. All design work and production processes occur in collaboration with ornithologists and experts, resulting in products adapted to the guests' needs. The feeders prioritise hygiene to prevent diseases from spreading between the birds, and the nests have a range of adaptations to ensure that the inhabitants thrive.

The whole collection features materials that are stylish, functional and weatherproof.

MULTIHOLK

Be inspired by our lively assortment of dream homes for your feathery friends. The iconic Multiholk's clever design means it's usable year-round. During the colder months, the Multiholk is a bird feeder, and it transforms into a nest during the spring. You effortlessly change its use from feeder to nest by opening the entrance hole and inserting the base plate.

Multiholk is well-thought-out, with creative solutions and a playful design. Grooves below the inside of the entrance hole ensure the fledglings can climb out of the nest. And the material selection and ventilation holes help maintain the correct temperature during hot and cold days.

Multiholk is part of an ever-growing product family with classic, modern and countryside houses. All houses have decorative details that enhance their style.

INSECT HOTELS

The Nordic countries share a rich history of timber-clad housing, and white-trimmed red cottages dot the countryside. Our range of insect hotels reflects this heritage. In collaboration with experts, these nests draw pollinators to our gardens by giving them a place to stay—boosting biodiversity and increasing harvests.

BAT BOX

Bats are in steady decline due to a loss of habitat. A bat box is a perfect accompaniment to their natural nesting grounds.

Bats need a place to rest during the day, and in colder climates, they even use the nest during hibernation. Place the nest in a south-facing position, three to four meters above the ground.

MULTIFEEDER BARN

The Multifeeder Barn has several interior compartments to fill with different types of birdfeed. Offering a greater variety of feed attracts a greater variety of birds. Try peanuts, sunflower seeds, suet balls or even seed mixtures. The interior compartments protect the feed from the elements. And, as the small birds land to eat, they too are kept dry. The barn's narrow ledges make it difficult for larger birds to land and scare away the small birds.

GIANT SILO BARN

This traditional barn with two spacious silos attracts birdlife to the garden.

The Giant Silo Barn is an extra-spacious bird feeder with room for different seed mixes, suet balls and peanuts. Its interior compartments hold 10 l of birdseed, and the two silos have room for suet balls and peanuts.

BIRD FEEDER WITH BATH

Create movement and life in your garden with a stylish house with a built-in bird pool. With its clever design, the house will attract different bird species all year round. The pool will be a place for garden birds to quench their thirst, wash and frolic.

The bird feeder is made of wood. The roof with the built-in pool consists of weather- and frost-resistant plastic.

Holding six litres of seed, the Giant Feeder only needs filling occasionally. Its recyclable plastic insert, which contains the birdseed, is easy to remove for cleaning. Larger birds find it difficult to land on the perching ring, meaning that small birds can enjoy their meals in peace. The Giant Feeder has six feeding windows, allowing many birds to feed at the same time.

POSTS & MOUNTS

Create a wildlife haven with small changes in your garden—bird feeders, nests, and bird baths can do wonders. When tree- or wall-mounting is not an option, you can opt for a post or swing arm that fits most of our Multiholks, nests and bird feeders. Outdoor candles in the garden give a cosy atmosphere when evening approaches. Lift the light a bit higher with a pole to create interesting shadows in the darkness.

Mounting the Swing Arm directly outside your window makes it easy to see the birdlife up close and refill your bird feeder with seeds. The Swing Arm fits Wildlife Garden's Multiholks and Bird Feeders with Bath. For safety reasons, mount the Swing Arm no higher than 2.5 m above the ground. The Swing Arm can hold a maximum load of 4,5 kg.

The metal pole is durable, stable, and weather-resistant. The shape makes it easy to get into the ground, and the sturdy construction means that it can handle loads of up to 10 kg. This post fits the Multiholks, Multifeder Barns, Bird Feeders with Bath and the Giant Feeders. The post disassembles into three parts for easy transportation.

The three-piece, black-stained post fits all Multiholks, Bird Feeders with Bath, Bee Nests, Butterfly Boxes, Squirrel Feeders and Balcony Nesting Boxes. Coming in three parts makes the pole easy to transport. Each segment is 43 cm, and the assembled post has a total length of 120 cm.

GARDEN DECOR

Playful details inspired by the natural world transform the patio into a personalised garden room. With the help of animal and bird silhouettes, outdoor candle holders and lanterns, it's easy to create an atmosphere-rich outdoor space.

SILHOUETTES

The silhouettes are a collection of stylized animals depicted in black metal. They are a neat design detail both indoors and out, adding a playful and artisanal expression. Attach them to fences, the roof, railings, or even on the lawn or in a flowerbed.

Some silhouettes (WG701–WG706) can stand independently without screws, while others come with additional footrests that enable them to stand independently (WG752–WG758). To make WG750 and WG751 stand, fasten them to a surface using screws or pegs.

We offer several solutions for profiling and displaying Wildlife Garden's products. The display material, made of wood, comes complete with our logo.

Our packaging acts both to protect the product and as an attractive gift box, often with a display window. The packaging, made of untreated corrugated cardboard, is 100% recyclable—our goal is to replace all plastic packaging with sustainable materials wherever possible.
